Traffic in Estonia

In order to drive a car it is necessary to own a driving licence, provided it is valid for the class of vehicle a person wishes to drive.

The maximum speed limit is 90 km/h, in urban areas 50km/h, unless otherwise indicated.

The use of front and rear seat belts is compulsory.

Driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs is prohibited and strict penalties are in place for anyone caught doing so.

It is prohibited for drivers to use a mobile telephone in urban areas while the car is in motion.

Headlamps must be switched on while driving.

Medical information

- Should you need an ambulance or any emergency help, call 112. The operators will speak English but for speed it will obviously help if an Estonian helps with the call.
- Police (phone number 110) are very helpful and trained to give first aid.
- Citizens from other EU countries are treated free of charge. However when you go to an outpatients clinic, do take your passport with you to prove your EU identity. You will have to pay for prescribed medicines but charges are not high.

- Charges are made to non-EU citizens but unless you are critically ill and have to stay in hospital, these will usually be so low that you will not need to claim them back on insurance.
